Maths Task

Maths is Everywhere!

Yesterday you found that Maths really is everywhere! Today lets prove it with a scavenger hunt. You may want to do it alongside someone at home – who can complete it first? Have fun!! How many can you find?

Something square	A circle	Something shorter than a pencil	Something with the number 5 on	A double-digit odd number
Something that comes in twos (pairs)	An even number	A pattern	Something twice as long as your foot	Something spherical
Something that has symmetry	Something about the size of an apple	Something triangular	A rectangular array	Something that tells the time
A number greater than 20 but less than 50	A number whose tens place is even	Something that has more than 5 sides	Something heavier than you	Something that is full
