Reading task - prediction

Reread this part of yesterday's extract –

It was the king's great fondness for finery that led to a nasty incident which the history books of Cornucopia would later record as the beginning of all the troubles that were to engulf that happy little kingdom. At the time it happened, only a few people within the City-Within-The-City knew anything about it, though for some, it was an awful tragedy.

Predict what the 'incident' was and write a paragraph explaining your prediction. Think about what we have learnt in the story so far.

Writing/SPaG task

Reread Brenda Williams' poem "The Coming of the Iron Man". Discuss with your adult how the poem tells a narrative of the Iron Man entering the story. Discuss the vocabulary in each verse and look at the sentence structures used.

Today you are going to design your own Iron Man. Draw a picture of your Iron man and surround it with descriptive sentences (include verbs, adjectives and similes but not rhyming). Think about how he would move, look and sound.
